Dear Dr. Williams,

This will confirm our agreement by telephone on 30 September.

STAT [redacted] will present himself to you on 1 November to speak to no more than three undergraduate classes on the subjects of Sino-Soviet relations, Soviet politics, and international relations. No class will be larger than thirty-five students. Publicity will be held to a minimum, and no press or media people will be present.

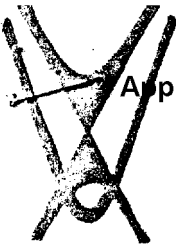

STAT
STAT By agreement, you will respond with the specific schedule which you wish [redacted] to follow. Any instructions about how to reach your office would also be helpful. If it is possible, I am sure [redacted] would like to know something about the course content for each class to which he will speak. It would also be nice if he could meet with you for a few minutes before his first talk.

Let me close by saying that we are pleased that you have invited us to send a representative to your campus. Mr. Colby has taken special interest in academic relations, and wants us to be as forthcoming as possible.

Sincerely,

Mr. William E. Colby, Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C. 20505

Dear Mr. Colby:

I was a participant in a one day "open house" for faculty from predominately Black schools held at your agency in early spring of this year. At the seminar, we were informed of the possibility to have personnel from the agency come to our campuses and speak to classes.

In lieu of that possibility, I am requesting the services, for one day, of a person knowledgeable in the areas of Russian and/or Chinese politics and would also be willing to speak on the agency role in international politics.

The person will be expected to speak to at least two classes. One class in international politics and the other in comparative politics. Any Friday between the 18th of October and the 15th of November would be suitable for the visit.

We are hoping you will find it possible to meet this request and that it will become the first in a long line of mutually satisfying endeavors.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Sue Williams

MEMORANDUM FOR: OPR

Ed Proctor would like you to respond positively to this, lining up a speaker and working out timing with Dr. Williams. He suggests that in your reply (either by telephone or by letter under your signature as Coordinator for Academic Relations) you establish ground rules against media publicity and the presence of newsmen. Would you please send us a copy of any correspondence on this for our file?
